

Responsible for the design and integration of a stereoscopic immersive display as part of Project Mercury, a single-person motion platform installed at SegaCity by Greystone Entertainment in 1994.